Prof. Yasuo Morimoto (Dept. of Occupational Pneumology) and Assoc. Prof. Tomohiro Ishimaru (Dept. of Medical Humanities) provided lectures at the Second Workshop on Occupational Lung Disease hosted by Ministry of Health, Lao PDR in Vientiane during November 9 and 10.

This workshop was hosted by the Ministry of Health, Lao PDR and supported by both WHO Western Pacific Regional Office and WHO Lao PDR Office while Prof. Morimoto fully supported from the process of planning to implementing the workshop as a representative of the Institute of Industrial Ecological Sciences which is one of the WHO Collaborating Centers in Occupational Health.

The workshop was held with the purpose of training the local medical practitioners including medical doctors and radiology technicians to improve their X-ray film reading techniques based on the ILO International Classification of Pneumoconiosis Radiographs and to contribute to the early detection of pneumoconiosis in the country. Approximately 40 medical practitioners took part in the workshop.
