

<2025 [27th]> Prof. Koji Mori provided lectures at universities in Indonesia (Posted on Dec. 23, 2025)

On December 2 and 5, Prof. Koji Mori (Dept. of Occupational Health Practice and Management) delivered lectures at Islam Bandung University and the University of Indonesia, both of which have academic exchange agreements with UOEH.

At Islam Bandung University, he presented on “Psychological Hazards and Stress Models in the Workplace” and “Fundamentals of Occupational Health and Safety Risk Management.” He also participated in community activities focused on the informal sectors conducted by the university.

At the University of Indonesia, he addressed a seminar on Health and Productivity Management, with a lecture titled “Development, Success Factors, and Challenges of ‘Health and Productivity Management’ Initiatives in Japan.” In addition, he served as a panelist in a session titled “HPM Implementation Opportunities and Challenges in Participant Institutions.”

Prof. Mori has been actively promoting research exchange with Indonesian colleagues. He has been appointed as a Visiting Professor at Islam Bandung University and an Adjunct Professor at the University of Indonesia.

@ Islam Bandung University

@ The University of Indonesia