(Posted on March 26, 2026)

Based on the exchange agreement concluded in 2024 between the Faculty of Medicine, Thammasat University in Thailand and the School of Medicine, UOEH, we hosted two medical students for a four-week medical education exchange program from February 14 to March 14, 2026. This marked the first time for UOEH to host students from Thammasat University under this program.

Following the opening ceremony and welcome reception on the first day, the students participated in clinical training alongside UOEH students in their respective departments. While learning differences between Thailand and Japan, they deepened their clinical knowledge and learned new techniques, making the training a highly meaningful experience. Beyond their clinical rotations, the students also spent valuable time interacting with UOEH students, providing our students with an important opportunity to broaden their international perspectives.
