(Posted on March 18, 2026)

From February 2 to 7, UOEH organized an international group training program on occupational health. The program welcomed 34 participants, including physicians, public health nurses, and graduate students from our MOU partner institutions: the Department of Disease Control (Ministry of Public Health) and the Faculty of Public Health, Mahidol University of Thailand, as well as the Faculty of Medicine, Universitas Indonesia, and other related institutions.

In addition to the lectures provided by our faculty members, the participants visited the Nishinohon Occupational Health Service Center and the Yaskawa Electric Corporation (Nakama Plant). By observing actual occupational health practices on-site, the participants gained invaluable knowledge that they can apply to their work and future research in their home countries. We would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude to our colleagues and all those involved for their cooperation.
