On August 7, 2026, Prof. Tomohiro Ishimaru (Dept. of Medical Humanities), Prof. Shingo Nakayamada (The First Dept. of Internal Medicine) and Prof. Isao Iwata (Medical Education Center) visited the School of Medicine at Pusan National University in South Korea to discuss collaboration and the establishment of a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the two institutions. This visit was conducted as a reciprocal exchange following the visit of the Dean, Prof. Won-Ho Cho and other representatives from the Pusan National University School of Medicine to UOEH in January 2026.

In addition to receiving an overview of Pusan National University's education, research, and clinical care systems, the delegation toured the university facilities and its two affiliated hospitals, where they learned about the clinical training environment for medical education and the organization of healthcare services. The delegation also exchanged views with Dean Cho and other representatives of the Pusan National University School of Medicine regarding future directions for collaboration including specific discussions toward the conclusion of an MOU. Both institutions plan to continue coordinating efforts toward the establishment of an MOU and the implementation of concrete exchange programs and joint activities.
